FINANCE AND TRADE.

THE FINANCIAL CIRCLES were quiet enclosures yesterday; nothing stirring; not a wave "rolled across the peaceful breast." The plenty and stagnancy of money remains as before. Exchange is now blessed with a participation in "the harmony of the spheres;" par on New York, par on Bosion, discount on New Orleans, is the settled, regular rate. Stocks and bonds were undisturbed by any action on the part of Madison street operators. We learned of a recent sale of $5000 stock of the New York, March 18,—Rate of the per to per market for three months bills 3.7-16 per cent, or 1-16 below bank of England rate. The mount of building one into bank on bolance to discount for days of the per to discount for the per to discount fo Brownsville savings bank, in Brownsville, at par, and par was offered in this city yesterday for $3000 more. That bank has been in existence between three and four years, and has paid 8 per cent, every six months to to its stockholders, and is therefore in the enjoyment of the confidence of the community that supports it. Two thousand State comptroller's warrants changed hands at 97]. Gold was taken at 110].

or two, because they have not had an opportunity to ship off purchases already made. We hear of a boat that is to have 3000 bales from one house. The weather, much of yesterday, was very dark and unfavorable for the examina tion of cotton samples. New York puoted middling 16 c, closing weak, New Orleans had a fair demand at 154c; sales were 2500 bales. Liverpool quoted 74d, with sales of 12,00r bales. The Vicksburg Times, March Sth. had the following: "In the cotton market, during the past week, but very little business has been transacted, and it may be safely relied upon that there will be none of any consequence trans-acted until the next cotton crop is gathered. From all parts of the State we hear that preparation for the next crop is pushed forward rapidly. An unusually large crop may be expected in this section of the country next season, as there is more cotton being planted in the Yazoo Valley than any year since the war, the labor being supplied by the large influx of Alabama emigrants." The New York Bulletin, February 7th, said: "There was a steady but quiet market on the spot. The effect of the firmness of holders here was believed to account for the. stronger tone of the market in Liverpool reported to-day. Spluners and exporters still refuse to purchase to any extent at present prices, however. For future delivery the market was generally held up, and 1-16c advance obtained in some instances. The tone of the Liverpool market favored the bull party today. They have, however, been operating for several days past, regardless of the course of the prices there." The same paper had the following on the 6th: "The market on the spot showed some development of a steadler feeling, which has been more or less perceptible for some days past, but which was restrained by extreme duliness. Liverpool was as dull as ever, but money here was easy, and sellers were disposed to hold for an advance, so that the official quotations of the standard grades were advanced ic. Of these figures the marever, with plenty of cotton avail-ket was still very dull, how-For future there were moderate transaction at higher prices. The movement was based on anticipations of some falling off in the receipts next week. This falling off in the receipts, however, it must be remembered, has been in prospect for some time, week by week, without important decrease; whether next week's developments will satisfy expectations remain to be seen. Although the decline in prices has caused the abatement to a great extent of cotton growing in Algeria and other places, the production of the Levant, Persia, Egypt and India furnishes the Marseilles market, while India is now exporting 300,000,000 kiles against 180,-000,000 in 1881, and Brazil 50,000,000 against 10,000,000, while the total production of the world is estimated at 7,000,000,000 kilos, in which the United States enters for one-half.
